

Mutual Fund Prospectus Notice

Each mutual fund has a prospectus that details the investment objectives and strategies of the fund, as well as the fund's past performance, managers and financial information. We recommend viewing the fund prospectus before investing.

To view a particular fund's prospectus, you can access them using one of the following 4 methods:

- 1) Logging into your online account via the www.yourbenefitaccount.com/gia401k website. If you do not know your login information, please utilize the "Forgot User ID or Password?" link.

- a. Once logged in to your account, go to Performance – Investment Returns.

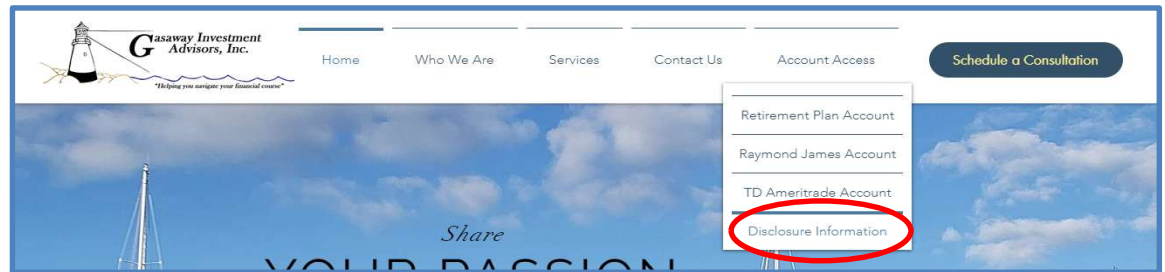

- b. You will then see the investment options listed. To the right of each investment name there is a 'details' button. Clicking on this 'details' button will allow you to select 'prospectus'. This will bring the prospectus up in an Adobe PDF file for you to view.

Investment	details	If Date
